JUST ABOUT TWO FAVORITES SCORED

A Day's Sport at Emeryville That Suited the Books.

Ingleside Fell in the Opening Event and Broke a Leg.

May R at 20 to I Downed the Favorite, Alvarado-Major Cook First, With 15 to I About Him in the Ring.

A novice around the corner might have picked the card at Emeryville yesterday, but the regulars found it like taking soup with Chinese chopsticks. Two favorites won, but they had to; they were prohitive favorites in the betting and the races were modeled to suit their respective abilities. The attendance was good and the individual donations kept the bookmakers in good humor.

Zeke Abrahams now signs his name with a minus sign affixed. He furnished Ingleside the second choice for the opening six-furlong battle, and all he got back was the saddle trappings and H. Brown, the jockey, who by the way was in a sadly demoralized state.

At the far turn Brown saw three inches of daylight separating two horses and took a chance of getting through. The gap was suddenly closed and Brown and Ingle-side rolled in the dust. The colored lad was short of atmosphere for several min-utes and Ingleside broke a leg and had to be destroyed.

be destroyed.

Billy Ayres, an 8 to 1 shot, won the race, with Popinjay, at 100 to 1, second.

Parthamax, the Burns & Waterhouse entry, was a 2 to 5 chance for the second event over a mile, and leading throughout the Maxim colt led the entire journey, winning cleverly from Russella, the second choice. Sly was a good third.

Tempestuous started for the first time in the colors of the Fleur de Lis stable, and was the post favorite for the six-furlong selling affair next decided. He was back in the ruck the first part, but came on in time to finish second, beaten two lengths by Charlemagne, a 5 to 1 shot. Roltaire, the second choice, made the running into the stretch.

Miss Rowens lay all over the others in the four-furiong scramble for two-year-olds, and won with consummate ease from the four-furiong scramble for two-yearolds, and won with consummate ease from an 11 to 20 favorite. Flushington, at odds

The stable and intimate connections got their checks down good and hard on Alvarado to win the mile selling run, but the clatter of hoofs at his heels all the afflicted with heart failure toward the close. This bad acting son of Amigo was a 7 to 10 chance in the betting. Among the starters was May R with 77 pounds, and Midget Johnny Woods in the saddle.

The three-quarter section of a jockey hustled the mare along, and gradually pulling up on equal terms with Alvarado at the paddock led him out a head at the wire in 1:42. San Marco was third.
Dunboy, with "Jockey Bill" Martin at the helm, was a 9 to 5 favorite for the final

Dunboy's head spin before he reached the > Already Begin Work in the Field for a New Constitution.

> Opened Headquarters With Ralph E Hoyt, State Organizer, in Charge.

The Elections Next Fall Give Indications of Being Lively for Several Reasons.

The Single-Tax Society of this City has determined to be an active factor in the campaign for a new constitution. To the workers of that society, and more especially to its treasurer, James S. Reynolds, is largely due the passage by the Legislature in the throes of its last hours of the concurrent resolution submitting the question who heat that amendment were large tion declaring such constitution so ratified to be the constitution of the State.

It will thus be seen that it is within the bounds of possibility to secure for this State a new constitution before the beginning of the next century, and in my humble judgment the people of this State could render themselves no better service than by calling such convention and adopting the result of its labors, providing the same shall be in accordance with the sentiment of the people of the State at that time.

labors, providing the same shall be in accordance with the sentiment of the people of the State at that time.

It is almost universally conceded that our present constitution is unsatisfactory and that the same should be revised. A constitution should be a simple declaration of fundamental principles of law, whereas our constitution is so incumbered with details as to be in effect a statutory provision rendering it almost impossible to enact laws thereunder which shall not in some particular conflict therewith. In some countries there is no written constitution, and in view of the case with which the Supreme Court of our State decrees the unconstitutionality of desirable statutes enacted by our Legislature I have sometimes thought that it would be greatly to our advantage if we also were without an unchangeable document declaratory of our fundamental law.

The plain duty, then, of all persons who favor constitutional amendments in our State, whether in the matter of tax reform or upon other subjects, is to bend every energy to secure the majority of the votes at the next election in favor of calling the constitutional convention, and as the people of this State are progressive, intelligent and thoughtful I have no doubt that two years from now they will vote in favor of such convention and in pursuance thereof will elect men of sound judgment and progressive ideas who will assume the duties of delegates to that convention in a spirit of earnest desire to so amend our organic law as to abolish the numerous evils which exist thereunder.

Speaking of the spread of the single-tax doctrine in the State Mr. Hoyt said:

ing, and proposes to keep up active operations until election day, in November

Hon. Ralph E. Hoyt has been placed in charge of the headquarters for the time being. He will be the general organizer of the single-tax campaign, and will travel over the State lecturing and forming clubs.

"We propose to plainly state our reasons for favoring a new constitution," said Mr. Hoyt yesterday. "They are that we desire all revenues to be raised from a tax on land values and would so have the new constitution provide. We shall keep up a lively campaign of education through the campaign. We are aware that there is a very general feeling of discontent with parent corporation, were directly interthe prevailing system of taxation in the State. It shows itself at every turn, and we shall take pains to point the one rational way out of the trouble. This dis-content shows itself in the many different attempts to find relief in amending the revenue provisions in the constitution.

There were no less than seventy amendments to the constitution offered during the last session of the Legislature, and of these thirty were directed at the revenue or taxation clause.

"There is no doubt that the movement in behalf of a new constitution will grow more and more popular as time passes and the character of the clumsy instrument that now serves as the fundamental law of the State is made clear to them. As Senator Buila says in a communication addressed to me at Los Angeles, the ease with which the Supreme Court finds excellent reasons for declaring unconstitutional very excellent laws whenever they cellent reasons for declaring unconstitutional very excellent laws whenever they are appealed to seems to show that there is something radically wrong with the constitution, anyhow. It is a lot of confusing and hampering legislation, born of the sand-lot agitation, and this State should eagerly avail itself of an opportunity to frame a new one that shall lay down some broad principles, and under which the business of the State may be allowed to expand.

"This coming election will be a very important one. It will be necessary not only to determine in favor of the constitutional convention, but we will have to elect a Le-islature that will make proper provision for calling the convention. The movement for a new constitution, especially from the single-tax point of view, is entirely non-partisan. Here the most ardent Democrats, Republicans and Populists may join hands."

Senator Bullaintroduced the concurrent resolution that resulted in sutmitting this question to the people of the State. In a recent letter to Mr. Hoyt concerning it he sait:

The resolution calls for a convention of Berkelev will be the chairman.

recent letter to Mr. Hoyt concerning it he said:

The resolution calls for a convention of eighty members, one from each Assembly district, with the same compensation and qualifications as members of the Legislature. The former Constitutional Convention was composed of 120 members, but my idea in the preparation of the resolution was that a body of eighty men could be as safely entrusted with the interests of the people as one composed of a larger membership, and that their deliberations would require less time and be much less expensive for the people of the State. If the resolution be adopted by a majority of those voting at the next general election it shall be the duty of the Governor to forthwith issue his proclamation announcing the fact that such convention has been called, and it shall thereupon be the duty of the next session of the Legislature (in 1899) to provide by law for the belding thereof at the State capitol.

The convention must then meet within three months from the time of the election of the delegrates and continue in session until its work of revision is completed. Upon the completion of the revision a special election of the proposed new constitution. The returns of such election must be held for the adoption or rejection of the proposed new constitution. The returns of such election must be examined by the Governor, controller, Treasurer and Secretary of State, and if the contentiution is found to be ratified the Governor must issue his proclama-

A TRIFLE SCARED

Refused to Agree to Verdict in the Turner Case.

Accused of Fraternizing With the Adherents of the Defendant.

Judge Wa'lace Will Hear Deputy District Attorney Black's Motion to Punish for Contempt of Court.

There was a sensation in Judge Walace's court yesterday morning when the jury in the case of J. F. Turner filed into the jury-box and Foreman H. W. Hyman announced that there was no chance of an agreement because one member of the jury-afterward ascertained to be Isador Simon-would not listen to reason and refused to discuss the testimony or the law involved in the case.

Judge Wallace smiled grimly, and in his usual courtly manner suggested that the trial had occupied three weeks at great expense to the people of the community. He would be pleased to respond to any request the jurors might make for further information if there appeared to be a possibility of an agreement.

Mr. Hyman thought there was no use asking them to remain longer; that the jury stood from first to last II to I, and that the man who stood out had told the others that he did not intend to agree to a Deputy District Attorney Black responded by saying that he was informed on good authority that a member of the jury had disobeyed the admonition of the court; that ne had fraternized with Turner's adherents, and that he had several times during the trial been seen in consultation with the friends of Defendant Turner. One of the men with whom the juror had associated was surety on Turner's bond in the case. Mr. Black promised to present affidavits that would bring this matter to the attention of the court in a formal way, and wished to see whether a man who had been guilty of such acts could not be punished for contempt of court.

Judge Wallace said he would listen to Mr. Black's application if a proper showing was a means of wrath of the powers that be contented by the court in a formal way, and wished to see whether a man who had been guilty of such acts could not be punished for contempt of court.
